FAST PORTLAND EXPRESS IN COLLISION

Crashes Into Freight at South Lawrence; Nobody Seriously Hurt.

South Lawrence, Sept. 29.—The Portland express, which left Boston at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon for Portland, Me., over the Boston & Maine railroad, crashed into a freight train which was backing off the east-bound main line tracks just west of the station here last night.

No one was seriously hurt, although the passengers on the express, which was well filled, were badly shaken up. Wilbur S. Shorey, of East Rochester, N. H., a real estate salesman, who was on the platform between two cars, received injuries to his left leg, but no one else, so far as could be learned, required medical assistance.

The front of the engine on the express was demolished and three flat cars loaded with steel rails were overturned, blocking traffic for about an hour. The accident happened on the Andover street crossing, one of the busiest in the city, while hundreds of mill operatives were returning home. An automobile load of police helped keep the crowd in check and the fire department was also called out when it was reported that the wreckage had caught fire. The blaze, which was started by the headlight on the passenger engine, was quickly put out by the train crew.

Officials of the road said last night they were investigating a report that the express had run by a block signal set against it.

BOSTON BANKER'S WIFE MURDERED AT LAKE OSSISPEE

Summer Cottage is Set on Fire to Cover Up the Crime—Husband Placed Under Arrest

(Special to The Herald)

Mountain View, N. H., Sept. 29.—That Mrs. Fred S. Small, the wife of a Boston broker, who was burned in the fire at the Small house at Lake Ossipee late last night, was first strangled by a rope and beaten over the head was learned when her body was found in the ruins today. Mr. Small who was on a business trip to Boston, when he learned of the destruction of the cottage, turned back to Ossipee and is detained by the police pending the investigation. It was at first thought that Mrs. Small had been burned alive with the house. An examination of the body showed that Mrs. Small had been attacked, her hands and feet tied, a piece of cloth tied around her throat to strangle and act as a gag. The back of her head had been beaten in with some blunt instrument. The body had been placed on a bed on the second story and when the lower floor burned the body fell into the cellar where a pool of rain protected it from the fire so that it was practically untouched by the fire when discovered.

SWIFT WAR DEVELOPMENTS EXPECTED

After Session of the Greek Council in Athens Today.

London, Sept. 29.—Swift war developments after the meeting of the Crown Council in Athens today is expected.

A News Agency reports the preparation of an ultimatum to Bulgaria for the evacuation of Greek soil which the Allies agreed should be neutral ground.

Practically the whole Greek navy has deserted King Constantine and groups of army officers have tendered their services to former Premier Venizelos, the head of the revolutionists.

Preparations for war are being made by the Greek army.

An official dispatch from Athens gives the text of the proclamation of a provisional government in Crete by former Premier Venizelos and Admiral Coundourios, which declares that if the king should decide not to take the lead of the national forces "it is our duty to do the needful thing to save the country from the threatening ruin."

1217 MINES WASHED UP ON HOLLAND COAST

The Hague, Sept. 27.—Since the start of the war a total of 1217 mines have been washed up on the coast of Holland. Of these, 655 were British, 62 French, 215 German and 280 of undetermined origin.

Portsmouth, when the crush comes, needs more rooms for tourists. The Herald supplied the addresses of 30 persons on Tuesday who furnished accommodations for tourists. The Rockingham and Kearsarge were obliged to turn away large numbers on Tuesday and Wednesday.

LABOR MEN STILL CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

Will Endeavor to Secure a General Walk-Out Next Monday.

(Special to The Herald)

New York, Sept. 29.—Although a stunning blow has been dealt by the failure of the Building Trades and Teamsters unions to join a general walk out in connection with the New York traction strike, the strike leaders are not disheartened. Hugh Payne, chairman of the new union board of strategy, declared today: "The fight is still on. We have not given up the idea of a general tie up. The apparent failure of these unions to take part is due to the fact that they did not have time to act. The Allied Building Trades and the Teamsters comprise about 125 men. Strike leaders will endeavor to bring about the general strike on Monday which was scheduled for Wednesday. Police Commissioner Wood who has closely followed the strike from the start, said that there was less demonstration on the part of the strikers today than on previous days.

WILL MAKE MANY IMPROVEMENTS

Star Island Corporation Plans to Install New Sanitary System.

At a meeting of the Star Island Corporation held in Boston on Thursday it was voted to make many additions and improvements. Artisan wells are now being driven and a complete new sanitary system will be installed under the direction of Chief Engineer Ames of Rochester.

EIGHT BRITISH STEAMERS SUNK BY SUBMARINES

(Special to The Herald)
London, Sept. 29.—A dispatch to Lloyd's states that the British steamship Second has been sunk by a German submarine. The Second was the eighth victim of submarines in the past 24 hours.

JUDGE BRANCH READS THE RIOT ACT TO A MAN AT DOVER

In the superior court at Dover on Thursday, Peter Mansett was brought into court by Deputy Sheriff Fred E. Goodwin who arrested him on a capias charging Mansett with failing to appear in court on Wednesday as a witness on a liquor case. Mansett stated to the court that he got hurt and could not come. The court asked him if he had a doctor and he replied that he did not. Judge Branch made the following remark: "I do not take any stock in what you say, I shall fine you $50, but if you come here on Monday and testify in the case, I shall suspend the fine. Will you come here on Monday and testify?" Mansett then said he would and the Judge told him he could go. Mansett was arrested Tuesday night in Rochester by Deputy Sheriff Goodwin.

BRITISH WIN MORE VICTORIES ON THE SOMME

British Aviators Observe Gigantic Explosion Behind German Lines—Thought to Be An Ammunition Depot

(Special to The Herald)

London, Sept. 29.—A strongly defended farm southwest of Locals on the Somme front was captured from the Germans in a night attack, it was announced by the war office today.

North of Thiepval the newly won positions of the British are being shelled vigorously. British aviators observed a gigantic explosion behind the German lines southeast of Bapaume, as though an ammunition depot had exploded. Smoke ascended as high as 2,000 feet.

GERMANS WILL RENEW U-BOAT WARFARE

Unless the British Blockade on Food Stuffs Is Broken.

(Special to The Herald)
Berlin, via Sayville, Sept. 29.—All Germany looks forward today to the resumption of the U-boat submarine warfare.

The Chancellor in speaking on this subject said that a German statesman who would hesitate to use every available instrument of battle to shorten the war should be hanged. The only man who may avert a postponement of this ruthless submarine warfare is James W. Girard, American Ambassador to Germany. His trip to the U. S. is said in reality to be a mission in an effort to break the British blockade.

In the event of his failure the U boats will resume their undersea warfare against Great Britain.

FOSTER-PLAISTED Eliot Man Takes York Girl for His Bride.

Miss Helen Kenny Plaisted, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Plaisted of York Corner, and Fred Foster of Eliot, were married at the First Congregational parsonage, York, on Wednesday afternoon, Rev. Harry McCready performing the ceremony. The wedding was a quiet affair only the immediate relatives of the couple being present.

Miss Little Plaisted, a sister, acted as bridesmaid. The bride wore a dress of pale blue crepe de chine and georgette crepe.

After the wedding a reception was held at the house where the bride and groom were recipients of many handsome presents and good wishes from guests, numbering about thirty-five. The house was prettily decorated, the color scheme being autumn colors. After the reception the couple accompanied by Mrs. Little Tracy, sister of the bride, and Misses Mildred and

ANNOUNCES ARRIVAL OF THE DRESDEN

President Kempf in Reichstag States War Has Reached a Climax.

(Special to The Herald)

Berlin, via Sayville, Sept. 29.—In the opening of the Autumn session of the Reichstag today President Kempf mentioned the arrival of the submarine merchant boats Deutschland and Dresden in the United States. The gallery was crowded to its full capacity. Among those present at the Reichstag were many officers in uniform, wearing their bandages. President Kempf in his introductory speech said the military, economic and political war had reached a climax and that Germany from her position was satisfied in every respect. He read telegrams exchanged with the Kaiser on the second anniversary of the war.

HORRIBLE MISTAKES IN THE DUBLIN REVOLT

Dublin, Sept. 28.—The isolated tragedies of the recent rebellion in Dublin would provide material for a gruesome, blood-curdling volume. A Poe or a Maupassant might find in the inspiration for a classic of horror.

I have been present at all the public inquiries, beginning with the inquest held in the middle of May last on two men whose bodies were found in the cellars of a house in North King street, and ending with the Royal Commission which has just finished its labors.

To blunders the most pitiful of these tragedies were due. The case to which Sir John Simon and his fellow-commissioners gave searching, patient and impartial investigation was the result of a mistake on the part of Captain J. C. Bowen Colthurst, Royal Irish Rifles, who confined in Broadmoor Criminal Lunatic, Asylum, England, "during his Majesty's pleasure," for the murder of Skeffington, Dickson and MacIntyre. He thought he was shooting three Sinn Féiners, and he was in ghastly error.

But even if they had been insurgents, Captain Bowen Colthurst would have been none the less guilty of a triple crime in ordering the shooting of his prisoners without trial.

There is consolation of some sort in remembering that the men were not long tortured by the thought of the doom which the madman had prepared for them. Up to the last moment they had no hint of what was coming.

All the witnesses agreed that when the three victims were ordered out of the cells in which they had been confined on Wednesday morning, April 26, they did not realize what was before them. Not until they were lined up against the wall in the barracks yard did they know that their hour had struck. And then, as Sir John Simon said last week, they faced death "with dignity," and as counsel for the military authorities added, "without any craven fear in their hearts."

The terrible rebellion tragedies give no ground, no far as I have been able to judge, for an indictment of any body. They merely illustrate the deadly things that may be done by panic and fright when armed with lethal weapons.

Liam slaughtered like in the blunders that wrought tragedy during the rebellion. At the present moment a trooper in the Fifth Royal Irish Lancers is serving a sentence of five years' penal servitude for the manslaughter of Robert Clusker, an engine-room artificer in the British navy. As the naval officer was standing outside his hotel the trooper shot him dead. He took the man in blue to be a railway official who was presiding orders to clear of the street.

Two officers of the army who were actually on duty at the time were the victims of a blunder, and the shooting of whom was the most dramatic in the whole series. They met their fate in the malice of a famous brewer.

In one of the most commanding of the vast group of ugly buildings equipt within a few yards of the Liffey, some time between dark and dawn on Friday, April 28, two officers who bore excellent characters suffered the death of the traitor, at the hands of the very men who should have served them faithfully.

In darkness, through which the light of a solitary electric torch carried by one of the soldiers flickered, Lieutenant A. Lucas, of the 2d King Edward's Horse, was shot on the third and top floor of the malice by order of the sergeant who was in charge under the unfortunate officer; an untimely minutes later Lieutenant Worsick met the same fate on the second floor—but on this occasion the sergeant gave no order, the men firing at the lieutenant when, on being challenged, he rushed towards the sergeant, who stated he received a staggering blow which felled him to the ground.

In each instance, a civilian fell dead with the officer—the civilians being trusted clerks of the brewing firm in no way connected with the insurrectionary movement.

Lieutenant Lucas was a University man who went to Canada and set up as a schoolmaster, which profession he abandoned to go on the Montreal Stock Exchange. There he became wealthy and he married a Canadian woman. Lieutenant Worsick joined the Army in Kilmore last October.

The origin of the mistake is a tangled story. Lieutenant Lucas was put in charge of the malice guard at night. But, in the words of one of the military witnesses, "it was a dark night and a very uneasy place," and the sergeant was nervous and suspicious.

So were his men. An attack on the brewery at any moment was expected. Lights were seen moving in the darkness outside.

What the sergeant and his men took to be significant glances passed between Lieutenant Lucas and the civilian who accompanied him. To the ear of the sergeant the officer spoke with a "Yankee accent," and the officer mentioned he had been in America. And so on, until the sergeant declared: "There is treachery here! I'll have to put you under arrest," lying now fully convinced that Lucas was a civilian masquerading in officer's uniform and in collusion with the Sinn Féiners outside.

The sergeant was found "not guilty." As for his suspicions of Lieutenant Lucas, Lord Cheylesmore publicly stated there was no evidence produced at the court martial to warrant them and that there was nothing against the personal character of the ill-fated officer.

PUBLIC SERVICE BOARD ALLOWS EIGHT-CENT FARE

By a decision issued on Thursday from the public service commission, the Manchester and Berry street railway is given authority to increase the fares. The road is running at a loss, charging at present five cents for each zone from Manchester to Berry. The changed rates will have the effect of increasing the fares on two of the three zones to eight cents each. The commission estimates that the increase will add $17,000 per year in revenue, provided traffic does not diminish and this additional revenue would make the company barely more than half supporting. The rates can be made effective October 1.

MEMBER OF AGRICULTURAL COMMISSION

Tells American Bankers Association What Has Been Accomplished During the Past Year.

Kansas City, Sept. 29.—As a member of the Agricultural Commission of the American Bankers Association, Joseph Hirsch, vice president of the Corpus Christi National Bank of Corpus Christi, Texas, told the convention today what had been accomplished during the past year and outlined the future plans and purposes of the Commission. Mr. Hirsch dwelt on the energetic way in which the various state associations of bankers had taken up the work in their own localities, covering every section of the country from coast to coast. He paid particular attention to the work of the county agent as a means of bringing the educative work right to the farmer's door.

The chief economic value of the new system of Federal land banks, said Mr. Hirsch, lies in the extended period of payment afforded the borrower. This is considered of far greater importance than a slight lessening of the interest rate—if the Act lessens the rate at all. The great rural problem of this country, he said, as it has been of all countries, is to make it a nation of land owners.

The speaker gave some astonishing figures as to the results of demonstration work carried on in the south. He said:

"In 1914 the principal experiments conducted with the great staple crops of cotton and corn show that on 9,392 farms, with a total of 129,475 acres, southern demonstration farmers averaged 1,044.77 pounds of seed cotton per acre, against 623.7 pounds—the general average; while 13,665 demonstrations conducted on 130,408 acres planted to corn show an average of 31.83 bushels per acre, against an average yield of 20.7 bushels produced in the southern states. In 1915 over 20,000 southern farmers, employing demonstration methods, on 215,000 acres produced an average yield of 1,150 pounds of seed cotton per acre, and 56,000 farmers employing demonstration methods on 480,000 acres produced an average yield of 37.7 bushels of seed corn per acre. Figuring that cotton at ten cents the pound and corn at seventy-five cents the bushel, the cotton demonstrations show an increased value of approximately $4,000,000, and the corn experiments an increased value of $7,000,000 over the average production of cotton and corn on equal acreages. Demonstrations in oats, wheat, rye, barley, and other staple crops show equally amazing results."

"In 1915 over 50,000 pure bred and grade animals were brought into the southern states due to demonstration agents' influence. Over 1,700 farm clubs have been organized, with a total membership of nearly 50,000. The agents made over 600,000 visits to farms, traveling over 3,800,000 miles. Over 32,000 meetings were held, with a total attendance of 1,500,000 farmers, while over 1,000,000 government bulletins have been distributed by county agents. Over 13,000 visits were made to southern schools by agents, and there are now enrolled in the southern boys' cotton, corn, pig and other clubs over 50,000 boys, while there are over 37,000 girls enjoying the benefits of the home demonstration work. The increased yield of our great staple crops is a matter of vital importance to this nation. Our population has increased nearly 25,000,000 in the last fifteen years, while production of our great staples has been almost stationary, and there has been an alarming decrease in livestock production. France, Germany and Denmark produce twice as much wheat, rye and oats per acre and far excel us in the yields of other staple crops, and in every phase of production, we make a lamentable comparison with the great nations of Europe."

"The extension of the field demonstration work will add millions of dollars to the wealth of this country, and leading governmental and state agricultural authorities testify that the co-operation of bankers has been a potent factor in the development of the movement. The United States Department of Agriculture and the Agricultural Colleges furnish the scientific direction—the banker's local influence helps to establish the work. Local legislation is necessary for the appropriation of county funds—the banker's influence secures it."

The great increase in the sales of the Portsmouth Herald fully attest that the people of our city appreciate

ALBERT WALLACE OF ROCHESTER PASSES AWAY

Was Long Identified With the Shoe Business in His Native City.

Hon. Albert Wallace, 62, of the Grand of Wallace Bros., of the E. G. & E. Wallace shoe plant of Rochester, for many years one of the most prominent figures in the business and financial world of New England and a leading politician in New Hampshire, died Thursday at his home on South Main street, Rochester, of Bright's disease.

Mr. Wallace was the oldest son of the late E. G. Wallace, who with his brother Edwin, formed the shoe and tanning business of E. G. & E. Wallace which for years was known as one of the largest firms in New England. In 1877, after graduating from Dartmouth, he joined his father and uncle and has followed the business since up to a few months ago when a stock company purchased the business.

Mr. Wallace was for many years president of the Page Belting Company of Concord, vice president of the Rochester Loan and Banking Company, a large stockholder in the Boston & Maine Railroad, director of the Worcester, Nashua & Rochester Railroad. At one time he was interested in the electric road between Rochester, Dover and Somersworth, and it was through his efforts that the road was built from Dover to Rochester. It was also interested in an electric road in the Western states.

Mr. Wallace was a political power for many years. He represented Rochester in the Legislatures of 1893, 1903 and 1907. For nine years he served on the Rochester city council from ward six. He refused several times the nomination for governor and mayor.

Mr. Wallace was a man that took a large amount of interest in the poor. He was active in the founding of the Gaffney Home for the Aged and was president of the association for many years. He married in 1893 Rosalie K. Burr of Rochester, who died in 1888. He was married to Fannie Switzer Chadbourne of Waterville, Me., in 1894.

He is survived by a wife, one son by his first marriage, Louis Burr Wallace, now connected with the American Radiator Company, and five children by his second wife, Sarah, Josephine, Eben, Dorothy, Ruth and Kathryn; one brother, Sumner, of Rochester; three sisters, Mrs. Josephine Sweet, Mrs. Charles E. Hussey and Miss Annie Wallace, all of Rochester.

PROTEST RECEIVERSHIP OF BOSTON AND MAINE

Minority Stockholders Charge That Misstatement of Facts Was Made in Application for Receiver's Appointment.

Manchester, Sept. 28.—Another chapter in the affairs of the Boston and Maine railroad was written in this city when a hearing on a petition for disapproval of Judge Putnam's order appointing a receiver for the B. & M. filed by Edward P. Brown and Charles P. Green, representing the protective association of minority stockholders of the company, was held before United States Circuit Judge George H. Bingham.

Attorney Conrad W. Crooker, as counsel for the minority stockholders argued in their behalf while Attorney Streeter appeared for the defendants. At the conclusion of the hearing Judge Bingham ordered the petition to be filed with the circuit court of appeals and that a date be set for a hearing. All parties interested will then be given an opportunity to state their grievances.

The hearing this morning occurred at 10 o'clock at the chambers of the judge in the Manchester post office building and lasted for two hours. Besides attorneys for the minority stockholders and defendants, there were several prominent railroad officials in attendance.

In the course of the hearing Attorney Streeter addressed a rather pertinent question to Attorney Crooker which remained unanswered.

"I would like to ask Brother Crooker if his clients are satisfied with Mr. Hustis as a receiver, provided Judge Putnam's order is sustained?" said Attorney Streeter.

"We are in favor of no receiver," replied Attorney Crooker.

"But in the event that one was ordered, would your clients be satisfied with Mr. Hustis?"

Judge Bingham interrupted at this point and stated that the question was out of order. He said that no point regarding the receivership had been brought to his attention and wanted to know if it would have any bearing on the petition. Attorney Streeter said that it would soon. Judge Bingham stated that it need not be answered at this time.

Attorney Crooker opened the hearing by stating the cause for the petition.

The complaint sets forth the filing of the bill in equity by the International Rubber company against the Boston & Maine, which led to the appointment of President Hustis as receiver of the road, and that the directors of the road agreed to the proceeding. It charges that this was the result of collusion, and that as a result Judge Putnam was deceived, that the intention was to create a belief in the mind of the court that the railroad was financially embarrassed and force a reorganization to the "grave damage of your petitioners and to the grave prejudice of the public interest." It alleges that misleading statements of fact were submitted to the court and that other essential facts were withheld.

Many of the statements made in the application for the receivership are attacked, including one that "without such reorganization as can be effected under the provisions of legislation secured in Maine and Massachusetts but not in New Hampshire, it will be impossible for the defendant, Boston & Maine railroad, to obtain in any way the funds necessary to pay its debts as they fall due."

The petitioners finally declare that they are advised and believe that if the order appointing a receiver is allowed to continue in force the shares of stock owned and represented by them will become practically worthless, thereby causing "a loss to your petitioners and the interests represented by them of not less than $10,000, as well as great loss and damage to all other minority stockholders of the defendant Boston & Maine railroad, and to the great prejudice of the public interest."

Attorney Crooker stated that he had brought the petition before Judge Bingham simply to have it placed in the right place. He wanted to know where a petition of that kind must be filed.

Attorneys for the defendants spoke at length regarding the injury which would be caused the railroad if the receivership were not allowed.

At the conclusion of the hearing, Judge Bingham ordered that the petition be filed with the circuit court for appeals.

NEW YORK LETTER

From Our Regular Correspondent.

WILSON, ASHAMED:—Speaking at Baltimore, President Wilson said, "The only thing I have been ashamed of in America is the fear and trembling of Americans in the presence of foreign competitors." Possibly Mr. Wilson is to be congratulated that he feels no shame for his own fear and trembling in the presence of foreigners. But he should not censure American businessmen too severely. They realize that while Mr. Wilson is in control at Washington their foreign competitors may murder them in cold blood, torpedo their ships they travel on, outrage their wives and kill and mutilate their children with impunity; that the administration at most will merely write a note. They know that their foreign competitors may forfeit their property by unjust laws and decrees, as Carranza is doing now, and Mr. Wilson will probably defend and support the foreigner. It is not recorded that American businessmen have shown fear or trembling before their foreign competitors. But if Mr. Wilson knows of an instance where they have, it certainly is not for him to misunderstand the reason or to censure them severely.

CARRANZA IMPLACABLE:—"General" Carranza has grown decidedly impatient at the waste of time which is going on at New London. With considerable reluctance he consented to a conference and then instructed his delegates to discuss nothing but the withdrawal of American troops from Mexican territory, at least until an agreement on that point had been reached. Weeks have passed and no agreement on that point has been reached, and Carranza is strongly disposed to terminate the conference. In an effort to avert this, from a Democratic standpoint, disaster, Eliseo Arredondo, "Ambassador designate" has gone home to talk to the First Chief, having induced Carranza to "recall" him for that purpose. Some of those who have been in close touch with the New London conference maintain that it is rapidly approaching dissolution. The conference is, by the way, to transfer the scene of its labors to Atlantic

NEW YORK GENERAL STRIKE DECLARED ABSOLUTE FAILURE

New York, Sept. 28.—The second day of what was to have been a general strike of union workers in New York revealed no change early today in the situation marked yesterday by practically complete failure of the men and women to whom the call was directed to respond.

Best estimates showed that a bare handful of workers went out on sympathetic strikes. The larger unions have contracts with their employers, and have hesitated to break them.

Interest today centered in the possibility that subway and elevated motor-men, who have heretofore refused to join the traction strike, might be called out. A. L. Gridley, organizer of the City as it is believed the great seaside resort will afford more opportunities pleasantly to kill time, and as the United States pays all expenses there is no objection to the move.

AMERICANS PRAY RELIEF:—American citizens having mining interests in Mexico have filed a formal protest, drawn up by William Loeb, Jr., long Secretary to President Roosevelt, against the confiscatory taxes imposed on their property by Carranza. Carranza has imposed a tax of 13 per cent on the gross value of every ton of metal owned. This must be paid in gold and the Carranza officials compel the miners to buy the gold at prices greatly in excess of the regular exchange rates. Eighty per cent of the mining operations in the country have been suspended and the report says that under Carranza "the conditions have gradually become worse instead of better." As President Wilson has never even remonstrated with his friend Carranza because of his order decreeing trial by a military court-martial and death to all railway strikers and to all who befriended or show sympathy with such strikers in any way, the miners hardly look for relief as the result of anything this administration may do, but they felt it their duty to place the facts formally in the hands of Secretary Lane.

WHO'S TIMID?—Apocryph of President Wilson's declaration that he is "ashamed of the timidity of American businessmen" in the face of their foreign competitors, Leslie M. Shaw, former Secretary of the Treasury, points out that the late J. J. Hill showed no such timidity, that on the contrary, he showed great courage and enterprise in establishing a steamship line to the Orient, that the Pacific Mail Steamship Co. did the same thing and that President Wilson, by signing the La Follette bill, signed the death warrant of American shipping on the Pacific, turning it over to the Japanese, and Gov. Shaw points out further that it was "fear and trembling" in the face of what he conceived to be the wishes of the labor voters which made Mr. Wilson sign the Seaman's bill. He says further that the late R. H. Harbison conceived the idea of a great railway system to traverse Mexico and connect this country by rail with all the Latin American republics and that by his Mexican policy Mr. Wilson has set back that project at least half a century, and that most of Mr. Wilson's Mexican policy has been prompted by his fear and trembling lest he lose so much political capital as might be made by the Democratic slogan, "He has kept us out of war."

Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, with which some of the motormen are affiliated, attacked leaders of the street car union and declared officials of the Interborough company would be called to account for their refusal to treat with representatives of the Brotherhood.

Unions with a membership of 164,000 were voting on the question of responding to the sympathetic strike call today.

Leaders still claimed a majority of these would go out. They also claimed more than 150,000 workers "walked out" yesterday, but admitted most of these were Jewish workers who would have remained away from work anyhow because of their holiday.

There is no doubt that the official organ of the Wilson Administration, had sought a denial of Mr. Hughes' original charge and had been refused, the Administration merely saying that Secretary Lansing or Secretary Daniels would answer—not deny—the charge in due time. "I now challenge the administration to deny that the authorization was given," said Mr. Hughes.

MISSOURI IN THE SENATE:—As a reason for supporting the railway wage-increase bill, Senator Jim Reed, Democrat, of Missouri, said: "I talked with a man who is manifestly a nervous wreck. He used to pull the Twentieth Century Limited between Chicago and New York. He told me that by actual mathematics it could be demonstrated that upon that run the engineer holding that throttle had to read and record in his own brain SIX SIGNALS EVERY SECOND. Eight hours a day is long enough for that kind of labor. Eight hours is long enough for the passengers to ride behind a man under that kind of a strain." The truth is that this train is run by seven successive engineers, no one of whom runs over four hours, while each receives far more than eight hours' pay for from three to four hours' work, being paid mileage instead of time. Furthermore, even if the train made 60 miles an hour continuously, it would travel only 85 feet a second, so six signals a second would mean one each 16 2-3 feet. Missouri's present representative in the Senate is no credit to that state, and it is not surprising that there is excellent prospect that Missouri will improve that representation after March 4.

HUGHES DEFILES WILSON:—While he is exercising the utmost self-control to avoid attacking the personal character of Woodrow Wilson which, after all, is the real issue of this campaign, Gov. Hughes is gradually coming to censure Mr. Wilson far more severely than he did at first. In Ohio Mr. Hughes has defied President Wilson to deny that he instructed his personal representative, John Lind, that he, the President, had decided that Huerta must go, and that if domestic means could not be found to drive

Huerta from Mexico, other means would be employed, Mr. Hughes pointed out that the world, the official organ of the Wilson Administration, had sought a denial of Mr. Hughes' original charge and had been refused, the Administration merely saying that Secretary Lansing or Secretary Daniels would answer—not deny—the charge in due time. "I now challenge the administration to deny that the authorization was given," said Mr. Hughes.

"HOBO" A WOMAN MAKING LONG TRIP

Thomasville, Ga., Sept. 29.—Investigation of two supposed hobos, who had been arrested and placed in the barracks, here, revealed that one of the pair belonged to the gentler sex.

Upon being arrested the pair gave their names as Mai Smith and Bill Searey, but when Bill was found to be a woman they confessed to being Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bessent, of Jacksonville, Fla.

They said they were on their way to Milwaukee, Wis., and as they did not have funds sufficient to pay their way there they decided to tramp it, the wife being unwilling to be separated from her husband. She felt that she could make the trip better and easier in the guise of a man.

They were released from custody and given help that sent them "happy on their way," the woman clothed according to her sex.

ALL LONDON TURNS TO WRIST WATCH.

London, Sept. 28.—The wrist watch is now about the only time-keeper one ever sees in the streets of London. In pre-war days the wrist-watch had little or no vogue. It was considered foppish. But when the war broke out all was suddenly changed. The newly created soldier found it essential.

Regulations prohibited the smallest exhibition of any kind of ornament on his breast. If he put a watch inside his tunic he had to half unbutton his garment to get at it. If he hid it in his trouser pocket he was more than liable to break it. More than $30,000 wrist watches have been bought for soldiers and civilians since the war broke out.

Portsmouth, N. H., Friday, September 29, 1916.

The Agricultural College.

There is no doubt that a great many farmers, and other people as well, have an erroneous idea of what the agricultural college stands for. The common idea, especially in the earlier days of agricultural colleges, was that it was the business of these institutions to turn out graduates capable of taking the places of the men on the farms and accomplishing many times what the farmers and their sons and hired men were able to accomplish. To a certain extent this is done, but such graduates are not the chief output of the agricultural colleges by any means.

The work of this institution is to investigate, experiment and teach. And its teaching is by no means confined to the students. It is broadening its work all the time by extending it directly to the farmers and their families. Meetings are held every year to which all are welcome, and everything which has been demonstrated to be of advantage to the farmer is made plain. There is no interest of the farm, from the dairy to the bee hive, that is not given attention, and every particle of knowledge acquired by the investigators is free to all men. Men are sent out from these colleges to instruct in the care of orchards, and in all ways they are doing everything possible to promote the science of agriculture, for agriculture is a science when properly studied and practiced.

And in addition to what has been done in the past the agricultural colleges are now taking part in agricultural fairs, than which nothing could be more proper. At a recent fair in New England an agricultural college set up its tents and gave exhibitions and demonstrations that could not fail to be of value to those who gave attention. There was judging and testing of cows, an exhibit of the most improved dairy utensils, an exhibit of poultry, a presentation of the best methods of farm management and a demonstration of the care and management of bees. Experts were on hand to explain everything and answer all questions, and the college's department was one of the most interesting and valuable features of the fair.

The agricultural college has its place in this progressive age and is doing a work of large value to the country. It is doing work for which the average farmer has neither the time nor means, and the results of its efforts are not protected by copyright or patent. They are free to all and farmers are rapidly learning that there is something for them in the work of this institution, which is coming to be better appreciated as the years go by and its aims are better understood.

Flour has reached the highest price since the Civil war, some brands being quoted at $9.10 a barrel in New York, an increase of $3 over a year ago. It is a remarkable situation for a country that produces wheat as this country does. Without doubt the foreign war is to a considerable extent responsible, but there is a growing suspicion that there are other causes for the high price of food stuffs, and this suspicion is leading to action on the part of the federal government and some of the states. Against unavoidable increases there can be no complaint, but if the people are being juggled out of their hard earnings it is time that a remedy should be found and applied.

The woodsmen who rescued Mr. and Mrs. Dennison of Boston from the New Hampshire forest have been liberally rewarded, the sum of $2,100 having been divided among them. The hunt for the lost couple proved profitable work for the hardy men who engaged in it, and the money was not begrudged by those who paid it. "All's well that ends well."

The grand jury at Troy, N. Y., is investigating the retail coal business in that city, it being claimed there is a combination among the dealers to advance and keep up the price. There are other cities which suspect that this sort of thing is going on within their limits, and the Troy investigation may lead to more widespread results than are anticipated.

The first conference between the labor unions and the farmers of Illinois will be held in October to consider legislation of joint interest to them. If the farmers and labor unions were to stand together they would constitute a political force to be reckoned with. But what would be the effect on the cost of living?

The chief of the blackmailing gang that was recently rounded up has been sentenced to 18 months in a federal prison. In view of the swath he and his coadjutors cut in their despicable enterprise the sentence does not seem excessive.

A most beautiful month has been the one just drawing to a close.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Eight-Hour Fake

Says the New York World, the foremost thick-and-thin apologist for and champion of Woodrow Wilson:

Every intelligent man knows that the eight-hour principle has no meaning except, nine or ten hours' pay for eight hours' work. When did the eight-hour movement mean anything else?

So far as the recent controversy with the four railroad brotherhoods and the Adamson bill are concerned, that is the exact truth. That is precisely what Republican critics of the President have been declaring. But that is also precisely what the President has been trying to deny, and what his friends have been chiding his critics for saying. We have said from the outset that the Adamson bill was not, as the President disingenuously pretends, a bill for an eight-hour day, but a bill for twenty-five per cent increase of wages. That is what the World now cynically confesses. In the face of its own and its candidate's unctuous protestations to the contrary. As recently as last Saturday in his labored apology at Shadow Lawn Mr. Wilson said:

I learned that the men demanded an eight-hour day, and that, in order to make the eight-hour day work, they demanded that the railroads pay them one-half more for overtime than they paid them for the time in the regular day. I do not regard the question out the principle of the eight-hour day as arbitrary.

Is Mr. Wilson an "intelligent man"? Surely. Then, according to his chief newspaper champion, he knows that "the eight-hour principle has no meaning except nine or ten hours' pay for eight hours' work." That, according to The World, is the principle for which he stands. That is the principle which he declares "arbitrary" has long ago passed upon and irrevocably adopted. That is the principle which he regards as so perfectly established that it is not arbitrary. "Nine or ten hours' pay for eight hours' work."

Yet Mr. Wilson persists in talking about "an eight-hour day" when he knows, as "every intelligent man knows," that that phrase is a deceitful misnomer, an abut in fact it should be, "higher wages." And Mr. Wilson had the effrontery to tell the railroad managers—he boasted of it the other day at Shadow Lawn—that it was impossible to tell without actual experience whether the "eight-hour day" would materially increase their cost of operation. He chided and rebuked them even shook his formidable finger at them, for daring to say that they knew it would cost them a lot more. "How do you know?" he demanded, in his most ex cathedra, high-daddy tone.

How, indeed? How does anybody know that to give ten hours' pay for eight hours' work costs more than to give ten hours' pay for ten hours' work? How does anybody know that two and two make four? Such platitude might be amusing in a stage farce. But forward seriously by a President of the United States and his foremost journalistic supporter, it is neither funny nor fair. Does Mr. Wilson suppose, or does The World suppose, that the American people are so thick-witted that they cannot see through the pretence and the sham that has been foisted upon them?

But we thank The World for its involuntary blurring out of the truth, and its confession that all the criticisms of the President's tortuous course and false pretences in that matter have been well founded and abundantly deserved. For that is precisely what its cynical declaration amounts to. "Ten hours' pay for eight hours' work." That is what Mr. Wilson stands for. That is the sacred and principle which he will not submit to arbitration. And yet Mr. Wilson and The World persist in calling it an "eight hour day bill" and not a "bill for the increase of wages."

United States Again Insulted

(From the Pittsburgh Gazette, Rep.) How low the Wilson Administration has fallen in the estimation of foreign Governments is humbly disclosed by a conference held in New York. Sir Richard Crawford, commercial attaché of the British Embassy at Washington had luncheon with a group of business men, most of them engaged in furnishing munitions and other supplies to European belligerents, to discuss the British censorship, British restrictions on American commerce, the British blacklist and kindred subjects. Sir Richard "requested" suggestions and proposals for a more satisfactory arrangement.

Has Great Britain been more insulted

CURRENT OPINION

Man Who Is Not Willing to Fight for His Country Is Not Fit to Vote.

I have always borne testimony and shall always bear testimony to my belief that, on the whole, the very best Americans in this country are the officers and the enlisted men of the army and navy of the United States. They are the men to whom I take off my hat. I come a long way from doing it to some of their civilian fellow countrymen.

Every now and then you boys in after life will hear some amiable creature announce that this country does not need any trained men because a million armed men will spring to arms between sunrise and sunset. You boys from your own experience can tell the length of the spring they would have to take.

We hear every now and then from nice old women of both sexes that the United States need not ever fear any enemy; that it is too big and prosperous to be afraid of anybody. Well, six years ago, while I was traveling through Belgium, I met a prominent Belgian philanthropist, who said that Belgium would never need universal military training service, that such training was a temptation to militarism and that his country was so prosperous and industrious that it would never need it. I wonder where that poor fellow is now?

I have no use for the brawler or the tough. If I can get at him I will hurt him. But I have less use for the sissy or the coward.

I feel inclined always, and often obey the inclination, to tell my professional pacifist friends that the man that is not willing to fight for his country isn't fit to vote.—By Colonel Theodore Roosevelt.

ing? Is the British Embassy accredited to the Government of the United States or to the House of Morgan? Do our national rights stop short where the interests of private bankers and merchants engaged in war trade end? Is international law for the benefit of the few or is its maintenance the concern of all the world and the people of every nation? Do Mr. Morgan and his associates constitute the President and Department of State? If not, why does Great Britain go to Wall street to make terms for carrying on aggressions against free America? And what will Mr. Wilson do about it? Surely he has been lenient enough with England. She has done as she pleased and continues to do so, ignoring the mild protests from Washington. But Washington is charged with the duty of protecting American rights. The State Department has the duty of conducting negotiations affecting this country's relations. They should promptly put an end to these private efforts to prejudice the rights of the whole United States. Will Mr. Wilson see his duty in this instance and do it, or will he abdicate in favor of Mr. Morgan as he abdicated in favor of the Brotherhood chiefs in the railroad wage case?

A Word From the Wise
(From the Boston Traveler.) No one will accuse the New York Herald of being a dupe or emissary of the Kaiser. It has been pro-ally from the beginning of the war, and it will remain pro-ally until the end. It has never attempted to conceal its leanings, and what it could do for the cause which it favored. It has done without restraint.

That being so, its words yesterday on a somewhat important movement in this country, led by the New York World and followed by less influential papers elsewhere, will undoubtedly create some impression on Mr. Wilson's political cabinet. If not on those who are trying to label Mr. Hughes as the pro-German candidate. Says the New York Herald:

"The modern Know-nothings who are attacking Mr. Hughes because some American citizens of German birth are supporting him are much more likely to injure Mr. Wilson than Mr. Hughes." The Herald, of course, knows just what it is talking about. Isn't it about time for Mr. Wilson or somebody who enjoys his confidence—if there is anybody—to put a stop to the cheap nonsense that passes in certain newspaper circles for political strategy and is best exemplified by this query: "Can the Kaiser defeat Mr. Wilson?"

An Invasion of Holland
(From the Buffalo Express) A Dutch mail steamer was seized in the Channel by a German war vessel, and a number of Russian, French, Belgian and British passengers, including some escaped war prisoners, were removed. The principle is the same that applied when French and British warships removed Germans from American vessels. The Germans might as well land troops at Amsterdam, and arrest people in the streets of the city as to seize them from a Dutch vessel outside of German territorial waters. The violation of neutrality would be no greater.

In the cases of this kind affecting us the British and French have apologized and have released the prisoners. Will the Germans do that for Holland? Will Holland insist that they must?

Thrill To Be A Necessity
(From the Detroit Free Press) Commenting on the bread situation George A. Zabriskie, a New York wheat and flour expert, asserts that the average housewife in this country wastes her bread, many women throwing it away when it becomes stale. Though the connection between this remark and Mr. Zabriskie's accompanying assertion that there is no danger of a flour or wheat famine is rather remote at best, in a general way there is a timeliness in the observation.

The average American woman is wasteful, according to the standards in other countries. She is wasteful, not because she is preeminently indolent or incapable, but because she never has been obliged to exercise care in the details of housekeeping. Food has been plentiful here and, comparatively speaking, cheap. There has always been more where the last came from. No truly bread has been wasted but meat, vegetables, fruit, even delicacies. It is an old saying, so common as to be true, that a French family can live comfortably on what an American family throws into the garbage can.

But if a good many millions of people in this country expect to avoid pinch and even actual want, a change must come over the management of the kitchen. The thrift and efficiency and preparedness that are imperative to the commercial world must extend to domestic life. The nation to be prosperous must live on a narrower margin of waste in the home.

The reasons for this tightening of the economic lines are various and complicated. Some are the result of inevitable change in conditions in America owing to the big increase in population, and are permanent; others are the result of contact and relationship with the outside world, and these are more or less variable. The European war and war crop failures have joined just now to emphasize the general trend, but they are not responsible for it as a settled condition. In a way they may do the nation service by calling sharp attention to its need for cultivation of thrift against an inevitable future.

Our Waiting Soldiers

(From the Brooklyn Eagle.) The promotion of General "Jack" Pershing to be a major general has been well won. They also serve who only stand and wait. And for an American officer waiting is a lot harder than fighting.

Comrades in Delay

(From the New York Sun.) Greece and the Glenta have this in common—they got into the game too late.

Get Villa—or Get Out?

(From the Boston Traveler.) There is not the slightest doubt that Villa is very much alive, is in the saddle, and is augmenting the number of those who are willing and even anxious to follow him wherever his duty as a typical Mexican patriot may fall him.

It is high time to "get Villa" and to do so as expeditiously as possible. Carranza can't get him. In all probability he has no intention of making a serious attempt to do so. His chief purpose at this time is to compel the withdrawal of American troops from Mexico, whether they were sent by this government for the express purpose of "getting Villa, dead or alive."

Thus far the expedition has faded utterly because it has been compelled to obey the orders of a plausible-looking Mexican bandit who styles himself the first chief and who has been able to issue his orders to our troops through Washington. Now, with Villa in better shape for warfare than he has been for months, the United States has received a new and peremptory summons to retreat from a country that is further away from stable government than it was when Pershing entered it.

Which shall it be? "Get Villa" or "Get out?"

Thirteen in This Call.

Five joiners, four pipelitters' helpers, and four woodworkers' helpers were called today by the industrial department.

Due Here on Saturday.

The mine planter Baltimore, sister ship of the San Francisco, and the Duquesne will arrive at the yard on Saturday for temporary overhaul.

Getting Ready for the Ball.

The committee from the ships at the yard marine barracks, Southern and naval prison, who are to handle the arrangements for the big military ball in aid of the Army and Navy Home, held the first meeting today and began active work on the same. Every ship was represented and the general committee of nine men got right to work. The Washington, Eagle, Paducah, San Francisco, Southern, Humboldt, Leonidas, were represented and all are enthusiastic for the event.

No date has yet been set but it is likely to take place on the night of Oct. 11. The tickets will be $1.50, admitting gent and two ladies and will include the banquet.

Injured Man in Hospital

Franklin Andrews of Sanford, Me., a workman in the yard electrical force, is at the Portsmouth-hospital suffering from a slight concussion of the brain as the result of an accident on the U. S. S. Washington. Andrews and another workman were engaged in hauling cables with a tackle when the fall gave away and both fell heavily backwards, Andrews striking on his head.

Will Be No More Trouble

The local police had occasion to go the ferry landing, Daniel street on Thursday night with the intention of making an arrest of an enlisted man, and were prevented in doing so by the marine guard on the yard ferry boat, he stating that the police had no jurisdiction. Chief Hurley went to the yard today and took the matter up with the commandant, Captain W. L. Howard. An understanding was reached in which there will be no further hitch in the future when such cases come to the attention of the police. Chief Hurley also called on the commanding officer of the Washington relative to the case.

OFFICE BOY FAMINE IS LATEST NEW YORK ILL

New York, Sept. 28—An office boy famine is reported here. More than a thousand separate ads for office boys were printed in the morning newspapers of one day. The cause is largely prosperity.

First, when school opened a larger proportion of working boys than usual went back to absorb more of the "Three R's." Their fathers are better able to support the family than in ordinary years. Second, a large number of what would in normal times be simply five-dollar a week boys, have blossomed forth into young men factory mechanics, etc., and are getting men's wages.

To feel strong, have good appetite and digestion, sleep soundly and enjoy life, use Burdock Blood Bitters, the family system tonic. Price, $1.00.

Annual Court Elects Justin H. Smith of Boston Governor.

The twenty-third annual court of the Society of Colonial Wars of the State of New Hampshire was held on Thursday at the New Hampshire Society of the Chelmsford, Memorial hall, Exeter.

The officers chosen were: Governor, Justin Harvey Smith of Boston; deputy governor general, John Calvin (Horne) of Concord; Deputy governor, Arthur William Whittemore of Dover; Heat governor, James Albert Wellman of Manchester; secretary-treasurer, Walter Willard Simmons of Manchester; chaplain, Rev. Jesse Marlon (Barrett) of Tilton; historian, John Seales of Dover; registrar and genealogical committee, Irving Allison Watson of Concord; chancellor, George Moore Fletcher of Concord; auditor, James Albert Wellman of Manchester; gentlemen of the council committee, William Hamilton Foster of Concord; Horace Wentworth Brown of Dover; William Howard Tolson of Exeter; Benjamin S. Rolfe of Concord; and Benjamin Ames Kimball of Concord; committee on preservation of records, Charles Henry Greenleaf of Franklin; Morton Freeman (Hunt) of New York; and Harry Webster (Gill) of Exeter; committee on membership, James Albert Wellman of Manchester; Rev. Jesse Marlon (Barrett) of Tilton; Dwight Hall of Dover; Lucius Waterman of Lincoln; Daniel Gilman of Exeter; William Howard Tolson of Exeter; and William Hamilton Foster of Concord.

Following the luncheon came addresses by Principal Lewis Perry of the Phillips Exeter Academy, Prof. James A. Tufts of the Phillips academy faculty, Rev. S. H. Dana, pastor of the Phillips church, and a special poem by Rev. Jesse M. Durrell of Tilton.

The remainder of the day was spent in visiting the Davis Library and other buildings of the Phillips Exeter academy, besides the other buildings and places of local interest.

PEOPLES' OPINIONS.

Wanted to Hear Miss Gardner.

Editor—One day this week, according to your paper, the nurses at the hospital were favored by a lecture by a representative of the Nurses' Journal, Miss Gardner of New York. I was pleased to know that the nurses at the hospital were treated to a talk from such a well informed lady, but I think that every woman engaged in the profession of nursing should have been invited to meet and hear Miss Gardner at the hospital. Her subjects are interesting to all nurses whether connected with an institution or not. I have had the pleasure of hearing her and I know what a convincing and instructive lady she is. I trust when she or any other representative of the Journal visits Portsmouth again it can be arranged for every nurse, not employed, to hear her.

SURVIVOR OF MONITOR AND MERRIMAC FIGHT DIES

Pond du Lac, Wis., Sept. 29.—Christopher Price, member of the crew of the Monitor, in its fight with the Merrimac during the Civil war, died at his home at Stockbridge yesterday, aged 79 years.

Price's death is said to leave only one survivor of the Monitor's crew. Price never drew a pension from the government.

The men employed on the Boston and Maine railroad in this city were made happy by the visit of the paymaster of the road on Friday.

TERRIFIC FIGHT WITH VILLISTAS

Carranza Troops Suffer Big Losses in Battle at Cusiuhuirachic.

Chihuahua City, Mexico, Sept. 28.—Over a hundred Villa followers were killed, the bandit leader Baudello Uribe was taken prisoner, and heavy casualties suffered by Carranza forces in a terrific fight at Cusiuhuirachic, an important mining center about 50 miles southwest of Chihuahua City, according to a message received this afternoon by General Trevino from General Matias Ramos, who was himself slightly wounded.

Details of the fight were few and were appended to the request of Gen. Ramos for surgeons and medical supplies. A hospital corps detachment was accordingly rushed to the scene by train.

It is stated that the garrison at Cusiuhuirachic co-operated with the forces of Ramos, but whether they were attacked or had been the aggressors does not appear.

Baudello Uribe, leader of the band and Villa's chief lieutenant was the originator of the idea of cutting off the ears of government captured soldiers. Many others of his command are reported to have been made prisoners.

News of the fight was also received here from the telegraph operator at Santa Ysabel, who added nothing to the report of General Ramos. The general's official report was sent by way of that town, to which the hospital train has been despatched.

Santa Ysabel is 33 miles by train from Chihuahua City. The Mexican Northwestern railway makes a loop to Cusiuhuirachic from Santa Ysabel while the direct distance between the two towns is about 35 miles.

Troops continue to pour into Chihuahua City from the south to participate in the Villa hunt. General Apolinario Trevino's command arrived from Torreon today and paraded the streets. The horses of this command are in good condition and the troops will be sent into the field in pursuit of Villa at once.

KITTERY POINT

Mrs. Frank Cook and daughter Miss Hazel, of Hyde Park, Mass., are passing a week at the Low cottage.

Among those who enjoyed the excursion to the White Mountains from here today were Mrs. Wentworth Seaward and Mrs. Edward Bayliss.

The members of the K. F. G. club attended the play given at the Colonial Theatre, Portsmouth, last evening.

The Willing Workers met all day Thursday with Mrs. Thurston Patch. Dinner was served by the hostess.

Mrs. Herbert Baker spent Thursday with her son Arthur Baker and wife of Kittery.

Newell Bartlett of Lynn, Mass., was the recent guest of his aunt, Mrs. Oscar Clark.

Miss Carrie Pollansbee of Portsmouth passed Thursday with Mrs. E. L. Emery.

Miss Caswell of Boston is the guest of Mrs. Carroll Osgood of Keeler's Lane for a few days.

Miss Gladys Davis, Mr. George Ferriand and daughter, Mrs. Richards, returned to their home in Hyde Park today after passing a week at the Low cottage.

N. H. IS NOT ON FAVORED LIST

Gen. Furston Specifies Troops To Be Soon Mustered Out.

Laurado, Texas, Sept. 28.—Prospects of an early return of New Hampshire troops to their home state, faded perceptibly today upon receipt of a communication from General Furston at El Paso, specifying which regiments and organizations of the National Guard will be sent home under the war department order of Tuesday, releasing 10,000 men on guard duty at various points on the Texas border back to their state camp grounds.

The Second Maine Infantry today received orders to prepare to entrain for the return to Maine in all probability, as in the case of other units which recently have been returned from the border they will be mustered out of the service shortly.

The Rhode Island Battery at El Paso, the First Connecticut Infantry at Nogales, the First Massachusetts Field Artillery and the Second Massachusetts Field artillery, the latter two at El Paso, also will be returned, according to General Furston's orders.

These units complete the organizations of National Guard which will be returned under the recent war department order, and comprise a little less than 10,000 men.

No unit will leave its present location until troops, now in their state camps, arrive to relieve them, it was announced.

KITTERY

Constitution Lodge is to hold a big night on the eve of Nov. 7, when the first rank will be conferred upon a large class of candidates by the rank staff of Constitution Lodge. Plans are being made to make this a red letter night in Pythianism in Kittery.

The harvest supper held in the vestry of the Government Street Methodist church Thursday evening was a great success, both socially as well as financially. The vestry was very prettily decorated with red and white crepe paper and autumn foliage, also bouquets of cut flowers. There were six long tables set with everything good that goes to make a harvest supper.

Following was the menu, which was served from 5:30 to 7 o'clock: Corned beef, cabbage, potatoes, turnips, carrots, hot rolls, baked beans, brown bread, pickles, apple, cranberry squash, pumpkin, pineapple and whipped cream pies, apple dowdy with whipped cream, Indian pudding with whipped cream, fruit, coffee.

Mrs. Martha Rounds, president, was in charge, assisted by Mrs. Elmer Hall, Mrs. Ernest Jackson, Mrs. Ida Marshall, Miss Emily Shaw, Mrs. Frank Robins, Miss Arvilla Shaw, Mr. Charles Shackleton, Mr. William Fife. The waitresses were Mrs. William Forgrave, Mrs. C. H. Shackleton, Mrs. Ernest Higgins, Mrs. William Fife, Mrs. Lester Bowker, Mrs. Stillman Howden, Mrs. Frank Emerson, Mrs. Charles Pinkham, Mrs. Chester Caswell, Miss Hattie Splaney, Miss Emily Kimball.

Miss Marion Milliken, Miss Clara Dixon, Miss Berenice Jones, Miss Emella Myers. During the supper music was furnished by Howard Paul, violin, and Mrs. Harlow Parsons, piano.

The many friends of Mr. and Mrs. Milton Cochrane will be pleased to know that their oldest son, Roger, is improving after an operation for appendicitis, which was performed in the Pearl St. Homeopathic hospital in Albany, N. Y.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Farwell of Dams street were visitors in Dover yesterday.

Mr. Frank Morris of Otis avenue has returned from a fifteen-days' furlough which he spent in camp with the N. H. state militia.

Mrs. Mabel Hanson of Perth Amboy, N. J., was a recent guest of Miss Kate Parker of Otis avenue.

Mrs. Edgar Hatch and young son of New Jersey are the guests of Mrs. Martha Rounds of Kittery Depot.

The Nipic Campfire Girls held their regular meeting Thursday afternoon with their guardian, Miss Anna Remick of Locke's Cove.

Mrs. Clarence Staples of Love lane is passing a few days in North Berwick and Wells.

The Ladies' Circle will hold a harvest supper and sale of aprons, fancy articles and cooked food Wednesday afternoon and evening, Oct. 12.

Dr. E. E. Shapleigh of Wentworth street is enjoying a vacation from his medical duties.

"WHERE ARE MY CHILDREN?"

The film drama with the biggest following of any motion picture in late years, "Where Are My Children?" now at the Colonial Theatre, has aroused more interest and animated controversy in Portsmouth than was predicted by the promoters.

It is a big subject handled in a big way and it holds the interest of the Colonial patrons from start to finish with a grip of steel.

The very bigness of the idea, and perfect and unaffected frankness of the incorporation of the question of "birth control" into the story of the play is sufficient excuse for the picture, and the undoubted lesson which it drives home accentuates the value of it.

No one who sees the picture can remain neutral. Either you agree with the moral taught by the story or you do not. There is no middle ground.

The story, which discussion among those who have seen it, has rendered fairly familiar to all Portsmouth, concerns an attorney whose practice brings him in touch with doctors who make a specialty of destroying life at its conception. He is extremely bitter against this sort of practitioner and never fails to give such offenders the utmost punishment in his power. One he sends to state prison for fifteen years, only to have the prisoner prove to him that his (the attorney's) wife was one of his most frequent "patients."

This denouncement, descriptive of the agony of the man who loves children and who has always mourned the fact that he had none of his own, discovering that these doctors against whose practice he has fought all his life are responsible for his childless old age, is a master piece of acting.

This film will remain the week at the Colonial and you will do well to see it as early as possible, to be sure of seeing it at all.

Which Denomination Will You Take?

This is an opportunity you seldom find. Six per cent gold mortgage coupon bonds secured by valuable woolen mills in Maine, including fine water-power which the company owns.

These bonds could have been placed through brokers, but their prices seemed unreasonable. Therefore, the company is placing them direct, and giving each investor that which many firms give to bankers and brokers.

With each one hundred dollars invested, you get one hundred dollars worth of bonds, and one share of stock, par twenty-five dollars; the latter will share in the large profits which the company is sure to make.

You should certainly investigate this proposition, as it is right here at your door. Portsmouth people have visited the property recently, and purchased bonds and stock. Make your money work for you, instead of you working for money. Time can be arranged for payment if you wish.

MEXICAN POLICY SCORED IN REPUBLICAN PLATFORM

Convention at Concord of G. O. P. Names
Presidential Electors--Wilson's Policies Treated Harshly.

The republican state convention, held yesterday at Concord, with Col. John H. Bartlett of this city presiding, adopted a platform for the coming campaign and named the four members for New Hampshire of the presidential electoral college, who will cast their votes for Charles Evans Hughes for president if the Republican party carries the state in November. The four presidential electors named by the convention are former Governor Charles M. Floyd of Manchester; George A. Carpenter of Wolfeboro; George H. Leighton of Dublin, and William R. Brown of Berlin.

The platform adopted was presented by the Hon. George H. Moses of Concord, chairman of the committee on resolutions.

The platform begins with a recital of the achievements of the Republican administration of Gov. Roland H. Spaulding. It is stated that New Hampshire has not her portion of the cost of a needless mobilization of the national guard, forced upon us by a Democratic administration at Washington. The Republican party, it is declared, has "maintained the integrity of the state's system of railroads" and "has enacted effective legislation to limit the use of money in political campaigns." Factory inspections and improved laws covering industrial accidents are favored and the platform declares for a constitutional convention to make changes in the taxation laws and to facilitate future needed changes in the constitution. Naturally there is a demand for a protective tariff which will be "the safest defense to our industries at the end of the era of prosperity caused by the European war, whose horrors are being capitalized by an unscrupulous administration for personal political benefit."

The Hon. Henry W. Keyes, candidate for governor, spoke briefly as did Congressman Cyrus A. Sullivan and Edward H. Wason.

The principal speaker at the convention was the son of William A. Pendergast, Comptroller of New York City. Mr. Pendergast scored the weakness of the Democratic policies in his address, laying great emphasis on the vanced by President Wilson. He said in part:

"I am for the dignity of American citizenship and to uphold the honor of the American flag. I am for peace and prosperity through firmness and sagacity. I am not for peace that surrenders through an ignoble desire to keep out of trouble. The way to keep out of trouble is to stand erect, to be firm and to be just." In these words addressed to the people of Indiana during his recent trip through the state, was expressed the Americanism of Charles E. Hughes.

For nearly four years Mr. Wilson has been directing our international relations without firmness and without sagacity. Every critical episode has been marked by a disposition to pander to those who prefer sordid gain and national cowardice to patriotic sacrifices and a determination to maintain the prestige of the American people abroad. None but the follower will claim that our prestige has been so maintained under the present Democratic administration.

Mr. Wilson, in addition to other limitations, has labored under the two self-imposed handicaps. In the case of Mexico he predicted all his actions upon his assumed right to decide who should and who should not be the ruler of that country, instead of leaving this question, as it should of right be left, to the Mexican people to decide. In our European relations he was consumed from the very beginning of the great war, by the ambition to be the final arbiter of the questions at issue between the conflicting nations. At the beginning of the struggle he was blatantly proclaimed by his personal following that he would rival the great accomplishment of Theodore Roosevelt in bringing about the cessation of the Russo-Japanese war. Through inspired utterance and press-agent notice we were informed that Mr. Wilson was to be the peacemaker. So persistent were these reports, all having their genesis in administration circles, that they called forth a sharp rebuke from the British government, which, speaking for itself and its allies made it clear that the principles for which these people were sacrificing life and treasure were not to be made an instrument for the advancement of the political fortunes of Mr. Wilson and his party. This attitude of self-imposed peacemaker (self-imposed) he caused there had never been the slightest disposition shown by the warring nations to designate him as an arbiter) so warped Mr. Wilson's views of this nation's own interests that he was never able to display in his correspondence upon the outrages that were committed upon American lives and property upon the high seas, that independence of thought nor that rugged expression of this country's rights that should have characterized the utterances of an American president.

Mr. Hughes' public life is the proof that he is a man who means what he says; that he has principles which he will not barter for the fruits of expediency. Mr. Wilson's presidency has proved that it is difficult to know what he really does mean when he says a thing, because he fails to match his words with deeds that give them value. Further, there is hardly a principle of government which Mr. Wilson has espoused, either as historian, candidate or president, which he has not discarded or repudiated.

Saturday, October 9, is to be Fire Prevention day. People can make it a day of importance if they will look over their premises on that day and see if there are any invitations to fire held out thereon--any piles of inflammable rubbish, oily rags or loose papers, or matches thrown around where rats or mice can get at them and start fires. The loss by fire in the United States each year is upwards of half a million dollars, and nearly all this loss is preventable.

'HUMPTY DUMPTY' STAR GOES TO POOR HOUSE

Many of the Old Time Theatre
Goers Will Regret Tony Denier.

Tony Denier, in his 77th year in a poor house in Kingston, N. Y., viewing in sadness the years when he made millions laugh and made a fortune that was to preserve him in his old age.

For now remember Tony Denier of the "Humpty Dumpty" of nearly a half century ago. Tony was the star of the extravaganza that took the playing world off its feet. In pantomime Denier was not excelled. He repeated the triumphs of America in Berlin, Paris, St. Petersburg and in London.

Denier ran away from his home in Brooklyn when he was 16. It was with a chess that he got his training as an acrobat and clown. After years of trying one thing and another Denier found George J. Fox, the famous clown, and together they produced a number of pantomimes in the Old Bowery Theatre in New York. In 1868 they produced "Humpty Dumpty," which they played for 20 years.

In 1876 Denier began his preparations for retirement. He bought the lot that adjoins the Auditorium theatre in Wabash avenue and built a house that cost $18,000. The lot cost him $8,000. In 1888 he retired from the stage for good and at that time sold his Wabash avenue property for $70,000.

His wife left him and this was heart breaking to Denier who adored her.

He has now brought suit for $17,000 against his wife alleging he loaned her this several years ago.

NEW JUDGE WANTS SENTIMENT OF THE ATTORNEYS

Judge-elect Harry B. Ayer of the probate court of York county, who will assume his duties as judge the first of January, succeeding the late Judge Hobbs is making a canvass of attorneys in regard to the dates and manner of holding probate terms, with the desire to ascertain what arrangements will be most convenient to the greatest number.

Some time before he died, Judge Hobbs slightly re-arranged the terms so that most of them would be held in Biddeford, as that was the most convenient arrangement for him in his condition of health. It was easier for him to come down from North Berwick to Biddeford than to travel over the country as in the past.

Judge-elect Ayer is sending out cards to the attorneys, of which the following is a copy to wit:

Regulatory of Probate,
York county, Maine.

To attorneys and practitioners before the York county probate court:

It will be necessary to give a new order fixing the times and places for holding the probate court, beginning the new year, that may be permanent and it is desired to make the same to accommodate the greater number of persons.

To assist me in so determining, I will appreciate your opinion and desires--and in connection therewith, will you state whether you prefer one regular session each month, (except August) keeping open by adjournment for remainder of week, or two regular sessions each month, (except August.)

Very truly,
Harry B. Ayer.

ABANDON WRECK OF THE STEAMER BAY STATE

It was learned yesterday that the wreck of the steamer Bay State which ran ashore off Cape Elizabeth Saturday morning while on her trip from Boston to Portland, has been abandoned to the underwriters. The plank on the port side for half of the length of the steamer is broken and the starboard side is also badly damaged. The vessel has apparently bilged.

Most of the cargo has been removed and efforts will be made to save the boilers and such part of other machinery as can be taken off.

MILK CAR LEAVES RAILS AT HAMPTON LAST EVENING
HOLDING UP TRAFFIC ON MAIN LINE.

The Pullman, from Boston to Portland, due here at 9:07 was delayed nearly two hours last evening, owing to the de-railing of a car attached to a milk train, on the east-bound track, at Hampton. The car held up traffic for a long time and the Pullman was obliged to run to this city on the west bound track. The train left for Portland at 10:35 p. m.

Shortly after the arrival of the train at this city the wrecking train and crew were dispatched to Hampton and succeeded in replacing the de-railed car on the tracks after a short time.

IRISH EMIGRANTS ONLY WOMEN AND CHILDREN

Dublin, Sept. 28.--As a result of the restrictions on the emigration of males of military age from the United Kingdom, the emigrant parties which now leave Dublin twice a week are largely composed of young women and children.

They are selling out from this port at the rate of about one hundred a week, the majority bound for the United States. Many who hope to settle down in the states are returning, denied admissions for a variety of reasons.

MUSIC FOR PUPILS DURING VACCINATION.

Indianapolis, Ind., Sept. 27.--"Musical anaesthesia" has been used with great success by physicians who are inoculating pupils in the schools here against typhoid fever. At one school 260 pupils were lined up in an auditorium for the inoculation. A phonograph was brought into use and while the room resounded with stirring music the physicians worked rapidly. Not a child shrank from the physicians and not one suffered ill effects.

VILLA REPORTED HEADED FOR NEW RAID ON TEXAS

BANDIT LEADER HAS 600 MEN
AND IS ONLY A FEW MILES FROM THE INTERNATIONAL BOUNDARY LINE.

Field Headquarters, American Punitive Expedition in Mexico, Sept. 27, by Radio to Columbus, N. M., Sept. 28.—Francisco Villa with 600 men was at Santa Clara ranch, thirty miles east of Numbulpa, on Sept. 27, for the immediate purpose of capturing trains near Laguna and with the idea of striking north and invading Texas in the vicinity of Fabens, according to the latest and most detailed report of the bandit leader's movements received tonight at field headquarters.

The following leading adherents are said to be with Villa: Jose Inez Salazar, Martin Lopez, Murga brothers and Nikolaus Fernandez. Villa himself is said to be unable to walk without a crutch or to put his right foot on the ground. The horses in his band are reported to be in poor condition, and his followers are said to be in rags.

The American expeditionary headquarters declined to vouch for the authenticity of the reports, but it is generally believed Villa might enter the Santa Clara country for the purpose of recruiting or securing a base from which he could attack trains and obtain supplies.

The report makes no mention of a pursuing force, but the fact that Carranza troops are moving towards that part of Chihuahua is known at headquarters.

Investigation today failed to substantiate a report that a fight occurred last night at San Luis ranch, forty miles east of the American headquarters.

SUFFRAGISTS TO CELEBRATE

SUSAN B. ANTHONY DAY

New York, Sept. 29.—The calendar for October has two red-letter days of nation-wide significance for the suffragists of every state in the union. The National American Woman Suffrage Association has designated October 7 and October 21 as Federal Amendment Days, and on those days, suffragists all over the country will mark the progress and status of the Susan B. Anthony woman suffrage amendment to the federal constitution with public demonstrations.

On October 7 public meetings will be held by the suffragists of the local organizations over the country at which will be given the first reports of the canvass of Congressional candidates. The candidates' views on suffrage will be read. Suffrage speeches will be made, and the voters will be urged to select a candidate from among those who favor equal suffrage and the federal amendment. The suffragists will continue to maintain their strictly non-partisan attitude and will endorse no party candidate but will make it clear that they do not favor those who are unwilling to vote for the submission of the federal amendment.

The anti and non-committal candidates will have another chance and on October 21, a second series of meetings will be held and all candidates will be advertised accordingly.

On this day, also, a suffrage tableau will be staged, symbolizing the political status of womanhood in the various states of the United States.

DESTRUCTION OF VENICE PREDICTION OF DEPUTY

Rome, Sept. 28.—Professor Fradell, deputy from Venice to the Italian Parliament has just arrived here with a committee of Venetian leaders to submit to Premier Boselli a number of measures destined to relieve the economic distress in which the now placed and also to urge General Morone, minister of war, to perfect the defense of Venice in order to prevent further air raids. He declared today that only the employment of the most effective means of defense, together with a strong protest by the whole civilized world, will save Venice from utter destruction.

"It will be a repetition of the story of Laocöon, Rhebus and Geras," Deputy Fradell told. "Judging by what has already happened, the city is doomed to destruction. Naturally, the world at large knows very little about the extent of the damage already inflicted on the city, as the official communications are not supposed to give details. But the fact is that if the war continues another year, and the Austrians keep up their bombardment of the city at the present pace there will soon be but little left in Venice worth seeing."

St. Marks is still intact it is not the fault of the Austrians. Probably there is either an angel or a saint who shields the cathedral whose marble and mosaic still tell the story of the old Christian Republic. But how long will it remain undamaged? When will the Austrians destroy it? Eighteen months ago August Rodin, the celebrated French sculptor was in Venice and one evening I saw him stop in the middle of the square and look alternately, now at St. Marks and now at the palaces on both sides of him. It was the time when Italy was meditating the momentous resolve and the declaration of war to Austria was daily expected. All of a sudden I saw something to glitter in the sculptor's eyes. Turning to me he said: "Will they dare destroy them?"

"Unfortunately the answer is only too clear. As the hope of retaking Gorizia vanishes the Austrians will renew their attack against the city. They warned us in advance. In two different days the enemy dropped handbills from planes warning us that if we took Gorizia they would raze our city and I am afraid this threat will be carried out unless the civilized world raises its voice against the vandal determination of the Austrian general staff."

"Owing to its geographic position, Venice besides being a huge open-air museum, is also a naval base. This justifies the air raids; but the buildings that up to date have suffered the most from the air bombardments are those that have no military value at all."

"In a year beside the church of the Scalzi the Austrian bombs have greatly damaged the convent of St. Francis and the church of the same name attached to it. Of the number of private dwellings and industrial plants either destroyed or damaged I will say nothing."

"The true, deliberate, vandal attempts against the monuments of the city began right after the fall of Gorizia. Since then incendiary bombs have been used, instead of purely explosive ones and now the danger of a gigantic conflagration have been added to those of the explosions."

"Since August 8, 35 fires have been started. The destruction of St. Mark's

Formosa early in August was chiefly due to an incendiary bomb.

"The world knows that the dome of St. Peter's has been demolished. What the world does not know is that if the Royal Palace with its priceless collections is still intact, it is only because of the fact that a bomb failed to explode."

"And the raids continue. They cannot be wholly prevented. The air and sea planes come over the city on calm nights. They come from the sea undetected and when we discover them it is too late for an effective pursuit. Yet the population is resigned, they would gladly sacrifice any number of private dwellings if the monuments, the historical landmarks that are the permanent and eloquent witnesses of the glorious past of the little republic be spared."

BOXING NOTES

There will be some ring history of the sensational kind that lives long in the memories of the "fans" recorded at the Boston Arena next Tuesday evening when the Armory A. A. will stage, in one of its double wind-up bills, a bout between Al Shubert of New Bedford and his very classy lowman, Frankie (Young) Britt. These boys are by far the best that New England can offer in the pugilistic line and they will be stirred to greater action by reason of the fact that there is little love lost between them.

Shubert was responsible for Britt's entry into the fistic game. He took Frankie on as a sparring partner and the pupil quickly assimilated all of his master's tricks and added some of his own. Then that Green Eyed Monster Envy came between them and for a year or more Al New Bedford has talked of their quarrel. This bad feeling is genuine and not the result of a press agent's dream.

There is something doing in the wood pile and the Britt side of the match are having a fine laugh to themselves. They have tied Shubert up to make 120 pounds at nine o'clock on the evening of the battle and forced him to post $250 with the club. Shubert's readiness to accept these conditions would indicate that he too has something up his sleeve. In fistic gatherings the question of Shubert's weight is being greatly discussed and some doubt it that Al would gladly lose the forfeit thought to make 120 pounds if he thought it would injure his chances, for with him the battle Tuesday evening is the biggest of his career and he will fight like a demon to bring home the bacon.

Mel Coogan of Brooklyn and Pete Hartley of New York will meet in the other wind-up. The latter gave Billy Meyers a drubbing at the Arena the other night but in Coogan he meets a good, two handed glovesman who works very fast. There will be two preliminaries, Pat Owen of Cambridge boxes Joe Stanton of the same town while Jerry Gardner of Quincy meets Johnny Williams of Roxbury.

HOBO MIGRATION STRIKES MEMPHIS.

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 27.—The first frosty air of Fall has started hobos migrating south. Florida and the coastal regions of Alabama, Georgia, Mississippi and Louisiana are the destinations of the tourists who ride trains but do not buy tickets.

Travel is not confined to freight trains alone. Many tramps have been found in the tops and "blinds" of fast passenger trains. Tramps failing to find a favorable opportunity to "make a train" have appealed to police headquarters for lodging here. A few of these migratory spirits have spent the summer in the South but a great majority of them are from points as far north as Chicago and St. Paul and some have been found who spent the summer in Canada.

PLEAD NOT GUILTY IN HOSPITAL CASE AND HELD ON $2,000

THREE ATTENDANTS AT MEDICAL INSTITUTION CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER.

Boston, Sept. 28.—Frank Hale, Wesley R. Linton and Thomas McGrath, attendants at the Medford State Hospital, whose combined efforts to frustrate an attack on Hale by Camilla Strazullo, a patient, are alleged to have caused the latter's death Wednesday night, pleaded not guilty to manslaughter charges in the Dedham court this morning.

At the request of their attorney, Francis Burns of Boston, the case was continued to Oct. 21. Each was held in $1000 bonds.

According to the prisoners, Strazullo's death was accidental. Known as a violent patient, they say, he attacked Hale after the latter had been forced to eject him from a dining room. In the struggle that followed, they say, he fell, his head striking a bench. They laid him on a bed, they assert, and called Dr. Trowell, but the man never recovered consciousness. He was an inmate of the "violent ward" and had no family.

Clear, Peachy Skin Awaits Anyone Who Drinks Hot Water

Says an inside bath, before breakfast, fast helps us look and feel clean, sweet, fresh.

Sparkling and vivacious—merry, bright, alert—a good, clear skin and a natural, rosy, healthy complexion are assured only by pure blood. If only every man and woman could be induced to adopt the morning inside bath, what a gratifying change would take place. Instead of the thousands of sickly, anaemic-looking men, women and girls, with pasty or muddy complexions; instead of the multitudes of "nerve wrecks," "rundowns," "brain fags" and pessimists we should see a virile, optimistic throng of rosy-checked people everywhere.

An inside bath is had by drinking each morning, before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver, kidneys and ten yards of bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour fermentations and poisons, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. Those subject to sick headache, biliousness, nasty breath, rheumatism, colds; and particularly those who have a pallid, sallow complexion and who are constipated very often, are urged to obtain a quarter pound of limestone phosphate at the drug store which will cost but a trifle, but is sufficient to demonstrate the quick and remarkable change in both health and appearance, awaiting those who practice internal sanitation. We must remember that inside cleanliness is more important than outside, because the skin does not absorb impurities to contaminate the blood while the pores in the thirty feet of bowels do.

A COMMON SENSE VIEW

Chug, chug away they go,
Some of them fast, others slow;
Some of them dirty; others clean;
All of them burning gasoline.

Some blow a whistle, others a horn;
Some a siren with a note forlorn;
One going by has a melodious sound,
Another a noise like a tired hound.

There goes a brand new Cadillac,
This one looks like a country hack,
Here comes one upon my word,
If it isn't a two wheeled Henry Ford.

From every state they pass my door;
All kinds of shapes and patterns galore,
It's easy enough to own one and roam,
If you haven't the money, just mortgage your home.

But I often think of the grocer's bills
That go unpaid, and other ills
That emanate from the ruthless ways
Of brainless crazy automobile jays.

Sometimes I think perhaps a machine
Might save me money, that remains to be seen.
But mortgage my home to buy a car;
Guess not, my friend, you're wrong this far.

When my coffee is full of golden ore,
And the cellar has coal and wood in store,
And I as rich as Croesus feel
Perhaps I'll buy an automobile.

NEW OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Society for the Care of the South Cemetery Has Made Many Improvements.

The Society for the Care of the South Cemetery in Portsmouth, at their annual meeting held this week elected the following officers:

President, Rev. Alfred Gooding; secretary and treasurer, George B. Lord; committee on cemetery, Rev. Alfred Gooding, Gustave Peyser, Henry A. Yeaton, George B. Lord; committee on finance, Charles A. Hazlett, Edwin C. Blaisdell, Gustavo Peyser.

During the past year the society has made numerous improvements, the most noticeable being the rebuilding and rapping of the wall on Sagamore avenue.

The corporation known as The Society for the Care of the South Cemetery was formed for the purpose of giving perpetual care to burial lots in the South cemetery and to maintain the streets and avenues of said cemetery in a proper condition.

The South cemetery includes the Proprietors, Harmony Grove, Sagamore Grove and Cotton's cemeteries, adjoining each other.

Had a corporation of this kind been started with the opening of the cemetery and had membership in same been made compulsory, as in other cities, the present shabby and neglected appearance of the cemeteries would have been avoided.

It is not too late, however, to redeem them from their present state and restore them in a great measure to a good condition.

The trustees desire to set forth in this notice the advantage of this society, and to invite you as one of the lot owners, to unite yourself with the corporation.

The funds have been carefully invested and the personal attention that has been given voluntarily by the trustees to the expenditures on the lots and especially the improvements made in the avenues and paths, within a few years have met with the approval of the many who have joined in placing their lots in the perpetual care of the society. If the owners will co-operate with the trustees there is no reason why, in a few years, the cemeteries cannot be made into parks that will be a credit to the city.

There have been numerous instances where large estates have been divided and the beneficiaries have neglected to care for the burial places. No will should be made without consulting the form provided by the society. The society has also accepted funds from living persons and is caring for their lots to their entire satisfaction.

GAVE HIM A BANQUET

Farewell Reception for Julius Johnson at the Rockingham.

Julius Johnson, for the past two years office manager for the Whidder Shoe Company, was tendered a farewell banquet by his friends and office associates at the Rockingham on Thursday evening. A dozen or more were present. Mr. Johnson will shortly leave this city for Haverhill, Mass., where he will be associated with the Hancock, Walker Shoe Company as assistant treasurer.

GIRL SAID SHE WANTED JOB BEFORE SHE GOT MARRIED

A clerk in one of the manufacturing establishments of this city who has charge of hiring help says he has heard some funny stories from people seeking employment but nothing like that which came to him today. A well dressed young lady appeared at the office and engaged him in conversation as to the work she wanted, which happened to be office work. Her anxiety to secure the same caused the clerk to inquire why she wanted work so badly, and the surprising answer nearly took him off his feet: "I am going to get married," she said, "and I want to make sure of a good job before I get hooked up."

THE MAN WITH THE LANTERN IS NO LONGER A MYSTERY

TWO INJURED WHEN AUTO HIT TELEGRAPH POLE

Car Is Badly Wrecked When It Skids on Islington St. Near High School.

William Becker of 63 Wildbird street and his companion Augustus F. Nesche, brewer for the Frank Jones Company, were both severely injured Thursday afternoon when the automobile owned and driven by Mr. Becker collided with a pole on Islington street, near the high school building. The injured men were removed to their respective homes and are under the care of physicians. Mr. Becker was attended by Dr. Luce and his condition is considered as quite serious, the full extent of his injuries not at present being known. He was injured severely about his chest as the force of the collision jammed him against the steering wheel, and internal injuries are feared. Mr. Nesche was thrown from the car and sustained severe cuts about his head and both legs.

The accident occurred shortly before 3.00 o'clock. The car was being driven down town and the wheels caught in the street car tracks. When Mr. Becker attempted to turn out into the roadway the machine skidded, became unmanageable and climbed to the sidewalk striking a pole so hard that the car was a complete wreck. The car is a 1917 model roadster, and had been but lately purchased by Mr. Becker. It was towed to the Portsmouth Motor Mart and it is questionable if its condition will warrant the expenditure of the sum necessary to repair it.
